

ANTIDYSRRHYTHMIC MEDS AND ACTION POTENTIAL CHART

This chart represents the cardiac action potential (first image) with the electrical conduction of the heart EKG. The EKG is representative of what is occurring during each phase of the cardiac action potential. Along the cardiac action potential you will see what is occurring with the ions. Below the ion activity you will note what antiarrhythmic medications will have an effect during that phase of the action potential.